Acknowledgements

The process of dissertation writing is a tedious journey. Several people become an integral part of the course playing an important role in different ways. This dissertation remains incomplete until I express my deep sense of gratitude to one and all. I would like to begin citing two names with an immense sense of respect, and profound gratitude. Prof. Tony Sam George has been pivotal in giving shape to this piece of work. His intellectual and emotional guidance meant a lot to me throughout the journey, and his unique supervisory style was instrumental. Prof. Stanley Krippner is another praiseworthy name. He has always been a source of inspiration and was very influential in supervising the dissertation. His promptness in answering the questions that arose was a takeaway for me as a life lesson. The intellectual input provided by these two people cannot be described in mere words.

I express my sincere thanks to the ex-additional director of the center of research, Dr. Srikanta Swamy. Dr. Swamy was very helpful and showed a guiding path at times of difficulty. His significant experience in research is noteworthy. I cannot forget Dr. K. A. Sebastian, associate director of the center for research, who provided critical feedback during the synopsis presentation. Dr. Sachin Jain, the external examiner during synopsis presentation, pointed the blind spot and provided critical feedback. The insight and encouragement that he showed was worth praising. Many other people also played key roles. Ms. Deeya Mitra and Ms. Farida Kothari require special mention. They helped in every aspect of the dissertation writing. Be it providing support in logistics during the conduction of the experiment or helping in editing the manuscript, both of them were instrumental. Thank you so much Ms. Deeya and Ms. Farida.

I must cite the names of CogState, Inc, Australia, and Bangalore Vipassana Center (BVC), Alur, Bengaluru. CogState, Inc., both of whom provided the free license of research version CogState battery that was used as an instrument in the study. I took a vipassana-oriented mindfulness retreat at BVC. I would also like to thank Ms. Subashree Vijayadev who provided her expertise in English language and helped in copy-editing the manuscript. I am thankful to all the participants in the study, and express goodwill and metta-bhavana to all of them. I am also grateful to Prof. K. Jayashankara Reddy, Ms. Elizabeth Thomas, and Ms. Nisha Vidaysagar for their steady support towards making this endeavor a success. I owe my apologies to anyone else who supported me and whom I have forgotten to acknowledge.

Thanking you.
